TORONTO.
Messrs. Fleming Bros.:
[illegible] this opportunity of informing you [illegible] benefit I have derived from Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills. I have for two years past been [illegible] with a severe pain over the eyes, accompanied with a nervousness and sense of dizziness [illegible] beyond the power and skill of our physicians [illegible], caused, as far as I myself could judge, by a diseased state of the liver and stomach. Some of the doctors tried [illegible] remedies were tried, but all in vain, [illegible] disease still [illegible]. At last, I procured a box of your valuable Liver Pills from [illegible] here, and found, after taking a portion of them, that the disease and painful sensation over the eyes have almost entirely left me. I will close by advising all those afflicted as I have been, to procure the valuable medicine at once and save much time and pain, with little expense. With sincere gratitude and respect, I remain, yours respectfully,
GEO. W. RUSSELL, Toronto.

New York.
Mr. and Mrs. Williams, No. 248 Seventh street, testify that they have both been suffering with the liver complaint for about five years, during which time they have spent a large amount of money and tried many remedies but to no purpose. Finally, hearing of Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa., they purchased four boxes which they took according to the directions accompanying each box, and now pronounce themselves perfectly cured of that distressing disease.

Eight Five-Story Tenements Fall in New York.

MANY MEN BURIED IN THE RUINS

The Accident Caused by Poor Work and Criminal Carelessness—Still No Change in the Condition of General Grant—Railroad Notes.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Eight five-story tenements on the south side of Sixty-second street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, that had recently been put under roof, fell this afternoon while efforts were being made to brace them up, so that the yielding foundations might be made secure. The wreck was complete; not a stick remained standing, not a timber remained whole. Half a hundred workmen were at work in or about the buildings at the time, and at least thirteen of them were injured, none fatally. It was said that soon after the accident occurred that twenty persons were buried in the ruins, but up to a late hour nobody had been found. The most superficial examination of the debris showed the cause of the disaster to be wretched workmanship and poor material. The mortar contained little or no sand, but loam or mud instead, and was wholly unfit. This and the fact that the building had been erected during the cold weather, of wet and frozen brick, were directly the cause of the collapse.

The builder, Charles A. Buddensick, who was responsible, left the neighborhood in a carriage immediately after the disaster and drove to his residence. Where he went from there nobody could learn. The police, who arrested the master bricklayer, Charles Frank, could not find the builder. Buddensick has been for years in trouble with the authorities, on account of "skin" buildings he has put up. Evidence given by Frank and Charles Swager, another bricklayer, is very damaging to Buddensick.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.

Erection of the building has been going on since last November, during all the cold weather. The fourth story walls showed weakness in a sudden thaw, before the fifth story was reached, and had to be taken down. Workmen were forbidden to carry home scraps of timber left by the carpenters, by the builder's order. These were to be used in filling in the walls, to save bricks, which were sometimes put in by the armful. When a good thaw set in the walls began to weaken, and steps were taken to brace them up from both ends, so they would stick together until the roofs could be put on and the end walls rebuilt. The wall stood thus for a week or two without, so far as could be learned, exciting the curiosity of the building department. A heavy rain of yesterday morning completed the work begun by the thaw. This morning it was seen that the three houses at the west end were in imminent danger of falling. The foundation had bulged noticeably, and the walls were shaky. Builder Buddensick's attention was called to the matter, and he set men to work to fix up the walls at the foundation. Four stone masons and eighteen carpenters were at work on this when the crash came. There were roofers, painters, lathers and plumbers numbering perhaps thirty at work about the premises at the time. Fifty men had been laid off, as some material had not arrived.

About 3:15 P. M. a shout of warning went up that brought pale faces to many windows. The end of the building toward Eleventh avenue was seen to totter, and then fall with a thunderous noise. Both of the foundation walls had fallen out, and the body of the house deprived of its support fell to the cellar. The building adjoining it, having nothing to lean upon, fell next. Then the whole row followed, like a line of card houses. A continuous roar followed, that seemed to last many minutes as one after the other of the tall buildings fell.

A CONFUSED SCENE.

Workmen in the buildings for blocks around, and people living on the street for half a mile were startled by the shock, and in a short time the locality was packed by excited people, whose threats of vengeance on the reckless builder filled the air. When the heavy cloud of dust had cleared away, people looked upon heaps of broken bricks and timbers, piled only a few feet above the level of the street. Men with broken limbs and bruised faces were struggling out from under the wreck, and dragging themselves painfully away. Shrieks and groans were heard from one or two places, and to these spots people rushed. Firemen and all available ambulances were summoned, and people from all parts of the city flocked here. Roosevelt hospital ambulances were first on hand and carried away nine of the wounded. Commissioner Brennan of the charities department undertook to direct the work of rescue and Building Inspector D'Oench did work in the same direction.

Four hook and ladder companies and the crews of three engine companies set to work to remove the debris. A large gang of workmen was pressed into service, and in fifteen minutes the labor of rescue was well under way. Night had set in before efforts were relaxed at all. Once or twice workers fancied they heard a cry for help, but no person was found at either time.

At 7 o'clock Fire Chief Reeves thought he heard groans under a heap of the second building. Gangs went to work at the front and rear, and at 7:30 a hole large enough for a fireman and two citizens to grope their way to the cellar was made. Search with a lamp revealed nothing but ruins. Nearly two hours later, in the same place, groans came from a man caught in an upright position by crossing timbers and held fast. He was extricated with difficulty. He was Louis Walters, aged 40, and a framer who had been bolstering up the building. He was removed to the hospital.

Then digging was resumed under a strong calcium light, and policemen drew a line across the street.

THE MISSING CONTRACTOR.

It was said the missing builder had been hurt by a flying brick, when the buildings fell. Charles Schwazer, a bricklayer, was standing by him at the time. Schwazer had refused a week before to work longer on such buildings. As the dust arose Schwazer turned to Buddensick, and shaking his clenched fist in the builder's face, exclaimed: "You ought to be hung for what you have done here." Buddensick made no reply, but limped away. There were many threats of lynching the man afterward, and it was lucky for him that he stayed away. Buddensick is notorious as a builder of cheap residences. He has generally, of recent years, built under another name than his own, and he has been able to shirk responsibility. He was once indicted for violating the buildings law, but escaped punishment. Four years ago he went through bankruptcy; but has since done plenty of business under another name. Frank says he spoke to Buddensick a couple of times about the quality of mortar used, and the builder replied it would be all right.

It is said the building examiner made a protest against the method of raising these houses to the department, and was soon removed to another district. Inspector D'Oench made a hasty examination of other buildings close by being erected by Buddensick, and remarked that he thought he would order extensive alterations in them.

There were many narrow escapes. George Love and John Gainor were painting on the third story of one of the houses when it fell. Love fell in the cellar and John Gainor on the sidewalk, almost unhurt.

At midnight it was thought four persons—two stair builders and two plumbers—were still in the ruins.

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION.

Little or no Change Noticeable in the Past Twenty-four Hours.

GENERAL GRANT'S CONDITION.

NEW YORK, April 13—8:45 A. M.—General Grant slept in his chair from midnight until 6:30 A. M. He was disturbed occasionally by attacks of coughing with expectoration. He awoke expressing himself feeling quite comfortable. Has just taken nourishment without pain and is resting quietly. Pulse 72, temperature normal.

SENATOR CHAFFEE'S REPORT.

Senator Chaffee left the house at 9:15 A. M. He stated that the disease was spreading. The senator was with General Grant an hour. There was some pain this morning, attending the taking of food, and the cancer in the throat was suppurating. The general seemed no weaker than yesterday, and during the hour of the senator's call the patient coughed only once, and then the expectoration of mucus was accomplished without difficulty. So long as the general was nourished now, the senator believed, he would survive until the gradual course of the cancerous disease produced death.

SOMEWHAT IMPROVED.

General Grant is somewhat improved in his general condition since the last bulletin. A slight soreness of the throat during the morning was relieved by cocaine. The secretion of mucus has diminished, and the cough becomes less troublesome. The patient walked without assistance to an adjoining room, and sat in the sunlight. Pulse and temperature unchanged.

RAILROAD NOTES.

ANOTHER STRIKE THREATENED.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A special from Dallas says: It will surprise no one if another strike occurs on the Gould system in Texas at an early day. Railroad companies are gradually dismissing parties implicated in the last strike. Orders were to-day received by Missouri Pacific and Texas and Pacific officials to notify their laborers that in thirty days from date their wages would be reduced twenty-five cents each per day. The men talk of another strike.

ORDER TO BE VACATED.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Judge Beach of the supreme court to-day decided to vacate the order requiring Senator Leland Stanford's presence in court, to undergo an examination which may enable Erwin Davis to obtain facts upon which he can frame an action he has brought against Stanford for an accounting of profits of a partnership claimed to have been formed in 1878, for the purpose of constructing the Central Pacific railroad system, and other railroads.

NORTHERN PACIFIC EARNINGS.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The Railroad Journal says Northern Pacific earnings for March show a decrease of 30 per cent. compared with last year. The gain from February to March was 30 per cent. last year, and only 20 per cent. this. The season has not opened favorably with northwestern roads.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

An Important Ruling in Relation to the Taxation of Ferry Companies.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—A decision was rendered by the supreme court to-day in the tax case of the Gloucester Ferry Company, plaintiff in error, against the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in error to the supreme court of that state. This was a suit begun originally in the court of common pleas at Philadelphia, for the purpose of recovering from the ferry company, a New Jersey corporation, the amount of certain taxes levied upon its capital stock, by virtue of an act of the legislature of Pennsylvania, entitled "an act to provide revenue by taxation," passed June 7, 1879. The court of common pleas held that taxes could not be lawfully levied, because the ferry company carried on no business in Pennsylvania, except the landing and receiving of passengers and freight, which is part of the commerce of the country, and is protected by the constitution from imposition of burdens by state legislation. It therefore gave judgment in favor of the company. The case was carried on a writ of error to the supreme court of the state, where the judgment was reversed, and it is now brought here for final review. This court, in a long and elaborate opinion by Justice Field, holds that the receiving and landing of passengers and freight is incident to their transportation. Without both there could be no such thing as their transportation across the river Delaware. The transportation of passengers is not complete until they are disembarked at the pier of the city to which they are carried, and as to freight until it is landed upon such pier. All restraints by exactions in the form of taxes upon such transportation or upon acts necessary to its completion, are so many invasions of the exclusive power of congress to regulate that portion of commerce between the states. How conflicting legislation of two states on the subject of ferries or waters dividing them is to be met and treated, is not a question before this court for consideration. Pennsylvania has never attempted to exercise her power of establishing and regulating ferries across the Delaware river. Any one, so far as her law is concerned, is free to establish such ferries as he may choose. She merely exercises the right to designate the places of landing, as she does the places of landing for all vessels engaged in commerce. The question therefore respecting tax in the present case is not complicated by any action of that state concerning ferries. However great her power, no legislation on her part can impose a tax on that portion of interstate commerce which is involved in the transportation of persons and freight, whatever be the instrumentality by which it is carried on. It follows that upon the case stated the tax imposed on the ferry company was illegal and void. Judgment of the supreme court of Pennsylvania is reversed, and the cause remanded for further proceedings in conformity with this opinion.

The chief justice notified the bar that the court will adjourn for the term on May 4, and will hear no arguments after April 24.

ANOTHER DECISION.

A decision was also rendered to-day in the case of Francis Dodge et al. appellants, against Thomas Knowles, which presents the question of the liability of a married woman for certain debts contracted by her husband nominally as her trustee. The court holds that neither the liability for provision supplied at a dwelling house where the husband and wife and their children are living together, nor a promissory note given by a husband describing himself as trustee for the wife, in payment for such supplies, can be charged in equity upon the wife's separate estate, without clear proof that she contracted the debt in her own behalf, or intended to bind her separate estate for its payment. The decree of the court below is reversed, and the case remanded with direction to dismiss the bill. Opinion by Justice Gray.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

CAPTAIN COUCH INTERVIEWS LAMAR.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Post to-morrow will print an interview to-day between Captain Couch, leader of the Oklahoma boomers, and the secretary of the interior, in regard to Oklahoma. Secretary Lamar said:

"What is it you wish?"

"I want to know what course the administration has determined to pursue with reference to Oklahoma and the settling," replied Captain Couch.

"Well, sir, I will state to you the policy of this administration with regard to this Oklahoma country," said the secretary. "It considers the Oklahoma territory, on which the persons you represent are proposing to make settlements, as within and part of Indian territory. The administration regards it as not a part of the public domain, open to entry and settlement and acquisition of titles under the laws of the United States. Being Indian country—that is territory acquired and reserved for Indian occupancy—the government is pledged to the protection of it and its security to the Indians from intruders. No white persons have a right to go there and reside without a permit, and when they go they are intruders, who are there illegally and wrongfully. The policy of the president is to execute the pledge of the government, and to protect this territory from intrusion of white persons who claim they have a right to enter upon it, and that it was public domain, subject to pre-emption and homestead settlement."

"Is that the final decision?" asked Capt. Couch.

"It is, and it will be enforced," replied Mr. Lamar.

In reply to further questions, Secretary Lamar said the administration was determined there shall be no cattle men on the reservation. They will not be permitted to graze cattle within the limits of that territory. He repeated this declaration with emphasis.

ALL QUIET ON THE ISTHMUS.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Admiral Jouett telegraphed Secretary Whitney to-day: "The situation on the isthmus is unchanged. Trains run across regularly, without molestation." It is the general opinion among officers on duty at the navy department, that the marines recently sent from New York will leave Aspinwall on their return home within the next two weeks.

Officers here apprehend no further trouble, and say it is useless to keep so large a force on the isthmus, unless the rebels show signs of continuing their devastations. Should the marines return, Admiral Jouett will still have a force of about 1000 men to protect Americans and American interests.

THE WALES COURT-MARTIAL.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The court-martial appointed to try ex-Surgeon-General Wales will reconvene at the navy department to-morrow, to which date the trial was postponed, at the request of the accused, when the court first met a month ago. The trial will be held, naval officers say, without regard to any decision the district court may make on the pending habeas corpus application of the ex-surgeon-general, which looks to a trial by jury, instead of by court-martial. Refusal on his part to appear before the latter, the officers say, will be considered a contempt, and will be treated accordingly.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The president made the following appointments to-day: To be consuls of the United States: Charles T. Russell, Connecticut, to Liverpool, England; A. Haller Gross, Pennsylvania, at Athens, Greece; William W. Long, Texas, at Hamburg, Germany; Henri Vignaud, Louisiana, secretary of the legation of the United States at Paris; Augustus Jay, New York, second secretary of the legation at Paris.

WANTS TO BE RETIRED.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Justice Andrew Wylie of the United States supreme court, district of Columbia, has notified the president that he desires to be placed upon the retired list. Justice Wylie is 71 years of age.

ACCIDENTS.

SEVERAL MEN KILLED AND INJURED.

OSCODA, Mich., April 13.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon, while George Fulton, Joe Biddle, Tom Mitchell, George Gordon, Frank Maynard, John Hartwick and one unknown were clearing brick out of Gram's mill, the smoke stack at the bottom they gave way, and the men were buried under 50,000 brick. Several hundred people were gathered around the stack, and every effort to secure the bodies, alive or dead, was made. The work was slow, through about forty feet of debris, and some were heard imploring help. Fulton was severely but not fatally injured, and Gordon, aged 17, marvelously escaped. The others were killed. The last man was not reached until 9 o'clock. Men will search all night for others who may possibly be in the ruins.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

REFUSED TO ADMIT HIM TO BAIL.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Counsel for James D. Fish, the convicted ex-president of the Marine bank, applied to Judge Benedict in the U. S. circuit court to-day, to have their client admitted to bail. The court refused to grant the motion. Counsel will renew the application before court in bane in May next.

PUDDLERS GOING TO NEW ZEALAND.

PITTSBURG, April 13.—This afternoon 100 puddlers left this city for New Zealand to work in a large iron mill just finished. The substitution of steel for iron in the Pittsburg mills is fast taking away their occupation and driving them to seek employment elsewhere. Within the last two years not less than 2000 men in this city have been thrown out of work by the introduction of machinery for the manufacture of steel.

The stomach is not deranged by Red Star Cough Cure. Sold by druggists and dealers.

GLADSTONE MAKES A STATEMENT.

General Komaroff's Explanation Fails to Convince—Rumors of Another Contest Between the Russians and the Afghans—Etc.

LONDON, April 13—12:30 P. M.—The stock market is unusually quiet this morning. The Russian explanation of the late battle does not seem to increase the feeling that there will be no war. On the contrary the general opinion upon the streets seems to be that the action of Russia since that battle largely decrease the chances of a peaceful settlement of the difficulty. Consols, which closed Saturday night at 95¼, opened this morning at 95, and at this hour are still lower, at 94⅞ for both accounts. This is the lowest point touched in many years. Russian securities are quoted at 82¼.

GLADSTONE MAKES A SPEECH.

LONDON, April 13.—Gladstone, in the house of commons this afternoon, stated that the government upon receipt from Russia of General Komaroff's explanation of the Penjdeh incident telegraphed to Sir Peter Lumsden for information as to the correctness of the Russian commander's justification of his conduct in attacking the Afghans. Gladstone also announced that the government had received a full report of the communications which had passed between Earl Dufferin, British viceroy of India and Abdurrahaman Khan, ameer of Afghanistan, in councils recently held between them at Rawal-Pindi. These communications, the premier added, are entirely satisfactory to the government. Explaining the delay of the government in reaching a final decision with Russia, Gladstone said the report of Russian officers who took part in the Penjdeh battle and those of English officers who witnessed the engagement differed so materially in substance and in effect that the government felt obliged to make independent inquiry. This is proceeding now, and the government is doing everything in their power towards ascertaining the facts.

GLADSTONE MAKES FURTHER STATEMENTS.

Gladstone also stated in the commons that General Komaroff's report of the recent battle between the Russians and the Afghans had been telegraphed Sir Peter Lumsden, but no reply, as yet, had been received from the British commissioner. Russia had, the premier admitted, failed to answer the material parts of England's communication sent on the day of the receipt of news of the battle.

Mr. Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, conservative, asked if the government had been informed that the Russians had advanced to the Murghab river. Gladstone replied that the government had not received any information of the exact character of that mentioned by Mr. Bartlett. The government were aware, however, that a rumor existed to the effect that the Russians had made such advance. In response to other inquiries Gladstone said he expected soon to receive further communications about General Komaroff's action from Deglers, Russian foreign minister.

WILL REPLY TO THE QUEEN'S MESSAGE.

Marquis Hartington, secretary for war, in moving a reply to the queen's message summoning the reserves, stated that he was unable at present to speak concerning military measures under consideration by the government, because recent events had modified the views of the Indian government concerning the number of reinforcements required. He hoped to submit to the commons a vote of credit next Monday, when perhaps more might be said. Northcote, conservative leader of the house of commons, gave notice that his party would not oppose the vote of credit.

The House of Commons after rejecting, 142 to 30, the amendment offered by Labouchere, that England immediately evacuate the Soudan, agreed to reply to the queen's message calling out the reserves.

IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

Earl Salisbury, leader of the conservative peers, in the house of lords this evening asked the government if they had learned of a report that there was another engagement between Russians and Afghans on the Afghan frontier yesterday, and if the government knew whether the report was true or not. Earl Granville, foreign minister, answered for the government that they had nothing to add to the official statement made by Gladstone in the house of commons.

4:30 P. M.—Consols 95, for both money and account.

CABINET COUNCIL.

LONDON, April 13—1 P. M.—A cabinet meeting, summons for which were issued yesterday, is now in progress. Nothing is known positively in regard to the character of deliberations, but the great war question is believed to be absorbing the attention of the ministers, and the result of the council is awaited with anxious eagerness.

After the rising of the Cabinet Council this afternoon Earl Granville, foreign secretary, sent a long dispatch to the British minister at St. Petersburg. The government has received official dispatches, fully confirming the report of the Russian advance in force.

WAR NOTES.

LONDON, April 13.—Instructions have been telegraphed to Sir Peter Lumsden to transmit to London as quickly as possible his report, and that of Captain Yates, of the conflict on the Kushk river.

At various military and naval stations great preparations for war continue to be vigorously made.

General Komaroff's explanation is regarded as inadequate in official circles.

Earl Granville, British foreign minister, immediately after the adjournment of to-day's cabinet meeting, had interviews with Fehmi Pasha, special envoy from Turkey, and Count Karolyi, Austrian ambassador.

The government has ordered the transformation of the steamship Oregon into a man-of-war, instead of a troopship, as at first intended.

LUMSDEN'S POSITION.

Sir Peter Lumsden has occupied a strong position at Tirful. He is believed now to be able to prevent the Russians from attempting a coup de main in the direction of Herat.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

LONDON, April 14.—The Telegraph, editorially, remarks: "No diplomatic alliance can now rescue Deglers and the czar from their fighting generals."

With few exceptions the press of London and the provinces, of all shades of political opinion, attack the tone and question the accuracy of General Komaroff's statement. It is supposed the Russian minister of war shaped General Komaroff's telegram.

The Standard says the czar has, within the last forty-eight hours, telegraphed to Berlin an expression of his desire for peace.

GENERAL KOMAROFF EXPLAINS.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 13.—The Official Messenger to-day publishes a further communication from General Komaroff regarding the recent battle between the Russians and Afghans on the Kushk river. He asserts in this telegram that the menacing attitude of the Afghans in advancing so closely to his lines and occupying several available positions, together with the refusal of the Afghan commander to pay any attention to his protests, made him expect that the Afghans contemplated a night attack on the Russian lines.

ANOTHER ATTACK.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 13.—It is reported that the Afghans have made an attack on the Russian outposts.

CONTINENTAL BOURSES.

BERLIN, April 13.—The bourse was weak to-day. Under continued forced sales there was a general and important decline. Russian securities fell off 2½ points.

PARIS, April 13.—The bourse here to-day was unsettled, but closed stronger on rumors of attempts to mediate between England and Russia were making progress.

BERLIN, April 13.—Emperor William to-day gave audience to Prince Dolgorouki, the personal military representative of the czar.

FRANCE UNFRIENDLY TO ENGLAND.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A London special says: There is a distinct disposition on the part of the new French ministry to be unfriendly to England in her present dilemma. Most of the Paris papers reflect this tendency in bitter words about the English now reaping the harvest they sowed by allowing France to be dismembered fourteen years ago. M. De Freycinet has already taken certain suggestive steps in Egyptian matters, and he has it in his power, through the fiction that the khedive is responsible, to make all manner of difficulties for England by putting the screws on that dummy. In the existing state of English temper a very little of that sort of thing would go a great way, and if Germany or Italy gives the word, that they would just as soon make a general dance of it, John Bull would give the French ambassador his walking papers with infinite satisfaction.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1885.

THE NEW "MUGWUMP" REASON

When Harper's Weekly changed its politics so suddenly and so completely last year, assuming the character and status of a democratic organ, it lost most of its republican readers. It created a good deal of indignation among the mass of its old readers to find a journal which had so long been denouncing the democratic party as unworthy, and even as dangerous to the country, so ready to change its ground and accept and commend the very party which it had so long found reason to oppose. The suddenness of the change, too, was regarded as actually scandalous since it could not be accounted for on any of the principles of common honesty. The editor had been a member of the republican national convention in June, where he bore a leading part. No man there censured the democratic party as he did. His speeches before the convention were an exceptionally severe arraignment of its past history, its present position and its future purposes. "The democratic party," he exclaimed, "fell from power a quarter of a century ago as a conspiracy against liberty, it is now trying to sneak back into power as a conspiracy for spoils." Yet within a month after these utterances were made the editor had become a democrat, was doing his utmost to commend to the country the party which he had so vehemently opposed; and, to complete his feat of political versatility, was directing his rancor against the republican party with all the facility and all the zeal of the veteran democratic campaigner. Under his direction Harper's Weekly became one of the most extreme democratic campaign organs in the country. Its subscribers and readers were nearly all republicans, and they felt that they had been "sold." Most of them, therefore, have declined to renew their subscriptions, not, however, because they would proscribe a democratic paper, if it were an honest and consistent one, but because they kindled with indignation and disgust at what could not but seem to them an exhibition of unprincipled conduct. This impression was confirmed by the appearance of the correspondence relative to the publication of Mr. Blaine's book, which the Harpers had solicited but failed to get. It will be remembered that in their letter to him the Harpers spoke in highest terms of his abilities and worthiness; yet within a year their paper was denouncing him as a charlatan and as utterly unworthy and hopelessly corrupt. It was apparent that if the Harpers had become Mr. Blaine's publishers relations would have been established between the parties which would have led the Harpers to give Mr Blaine their most cordial support, and their editor would have been instructed to find reasons for further support of his old argument, that it would not do to trust the democratic party.

The above recital is made as preliminary to a remark upon the present course of Harper's Weekly. Old readers who do not see the paper may be interested in knowing that it finds new assurance of safety to the country in the accession to power of the party which it was wont to describe as the embodiment of all political evil. "Democratic success," it says, "has turned out to be of greatest service as proving that popular institutions and government by party have not yet failed, as they certainly would have failed if the success of one of the two great parties were indeed a mortal peril to the country." Remembering the past history of the paper, there could be no clearer proof of political insincerity than this statement conveys. If this "greatest service" has been rendered by putting the democratic party into power, why was the editor of Harper's Weekly at the republican convention at Chicago, warning the country against the democratic party and urging republican success as the surest means of averting a great danger? Why did not Harper's come out fairly and boldly at the beginning, and say "The democratic party may as well be trusted with the government as the republican party, the assumption that it may not be is not only wrong in itself but full of peril to the country, because popular institutions and government by party will fail if but one of the two great parties can be trusted with the government, and it is therefore a duty to bring the democratic party into power, in order to prevent the failure of popular government?" This would have been an intelligible expression. It would have borne the appearance of a statement honestly made, however fallacious as an argument. Probably no one would have been deceived by it, and certainly no one would have felt outraged by it. What is really complained of against Harper's the manifest dishonesty of a course which began by an appeal to the country to keep the republican party in power because the democratic party was not to be trusted, followed by a short and sharp turn within a month, which brought forth the argument that the democratic party ought to be put into power because the republican party was not to be trusted, and culminating now in the assumption that the success of the democratic party was necessary to the safety of popular institutions, so as to show that more than one of the great parties could be safely trusted with the government.

Of course the fact is that no person worth minding said or supposed that the country would be ruined by the success of the democratic party. It was, however, argued, and as earnestly as possible, that the history of the democratic party during so many years was so objectionable, and in many ways so infamous, as to render it unworthy to receive the confidence of the country. This argument was put largely on the basis of historical justice. That party had bitterly opposed everything which the country had found to be necessary for justice, peace and security; it had tried to arrest the great movement of thirty years and even to reverse it, and every step in that great onward course had been gained after a hard struggle against the resistance of the democratic party. Inasmuch as that course which the democratic party had opposed was so just in its purposes and so necessary and righteous in its results, it was insisted that the democratic party, on the grounds of historical justice, did not deserve the approbation of the country, and moreover, since the republican party had done so much that was worthy and glorious, it was argued that it was the better instrument through which to secure the purposes of good government, and more likely to act in accord with the spirit of the great changes secured through its action. No man of sense asserted that the success of the democratic party, or of any party, would put the country in "mortal peril." At a time like this the worst party can do the country no "mortal" harm. But there was a time when the success of the democratic party would have meant national ruin, and remembrance of this still constitutes the strongest and most valid objection to the commission of the government to the control of that party. The contest of last year was between the two parties on their historical merits, and the scale was turned partly by the defection, through motives more or less unworthy, of a small body of men for whom such journals as Harper's spoke, and partly by the irrational course of the class of prohibitionists who voted for St John. It is interesting now to find the Harper sheet giving it as a new reason for democratic success that the time had come when the "greatest service" that could be rendered to the country was to show it that the government could be safely given over to that party which had so long been on the wrong side of all important questions, and which has not even yet published an acknowledgment or renunciation of its errors.

Irish residents of the United States who propose to extend assistance to Russia in the event of a struggle with England, should remember that the neutrality laws were enforced by the United States during the Crimean war against parties who attempted to make enlistments in this country for the English army, and they would be as strictly enforced against those who might attempt to enlist on the other side.

The resumption of work by the North Chicago Rolling Mill Company, has caused much rejoicing in business circles in that city, and the event is hailed as a harbinger of the good times coming.

IT WILL PAY

We cannot too often say that the city of Portland is not fully supplied with the common food products of the country. It will be time to quit harping on the subject when it is possible to find at all times, or in season, in the Portland market Oregon vegetables, Oregon fruits and home-made dairy products—when we do not have to send money out of the country for the things we eat and which could be produced in better quality almost within gun-shot of the city. Discussion of the question as to who is to blame in the matter seems only to confirm each party in interest in the opinion that all others are at fault. No good comes of it because the fact still remains—we do not feed ourselves. No other city in the world sends eight hundred miles to another state for its kitchen truck, and the exception is the more remarkable and shameful from our situation in the midst of a fruitful country.

If anybody thinks that truck-farming will not pay in this country let him drive or walk out to Mount Tabor, back of East Portland, from where we get the greater part of our home supply. He will find a hundred farms of ten or fifteen acres each, well fenced, well cultivated, each with its comfortable house and all bearing unquestionable marks of thrift. Every truck farmer of this district is prosperous. Upon each little patch of land is concentrated the labor which is commonly in this country diffused and wasted over a large farm, and the result is annual profit greater than that realized by nine out of ten grain farmers in the Willamette valley. The visitor need not inquire of the Mount Tabor gardeners if their business pays, for the surroundings everywhere proves that it does. The market is always good, for they never have enough to go round and prices are always high.

An instance will show what may be done. Three years ago a German school teacher in Missouri came to Oregon with his little family, hoping to find in this new country chances for his family of growing boys. He bought four and a half acres just under Mount Tabor on the slope facing the city for $2400. He cleared it of timber and planted it in flowers and vegetables. Three days in the week his oldest boy peddles the product of the garden, and three days the product of the nursery. This man has now a beautiful place paid for out of its own profits during two seasons, and a better cash income than that enjoyed by many a bank cashier.

We invite the attention of new comers to this field of industry. No other offers such certain rewards in proportion to the investment. The land all about Portland is wonderfully productive after the timber is cleared away. It is particularly adapted to vegetables. All a man needs is five acres, and the moment he gets this much, if he have also industry, he is an independent man.

The Boston Post, one of the most conservative democratic papers in the country, says that President Cleveland shows a determination to direct his administration in accordance with the civil service laws, which forbid the indiscriminate removal of federal officers, but in good time he will remodel the service of the country so as to make it in sympathy and harmony with the business and purposes of the administration. At the end of his term "the country will see the working places of the government pretty well officered and manned by faithful and responsible members of the democratic party. He prefers to make these changes through the rules prescribed for a reformed civil service, not in conflict with them or defiance of them." The Post calls upon the faithful to support the president in the method he is determined to pursue, for it believes he will not deviate from it, and "it is for democrats to say whether the way shall be difficult or easy."

In Boston the wisdom of tempering justice with mercy has a new illustration in the reports of probation officers. For the last quarter these reports show nearly 300 cases in which offenders have been taken under the wing of the probation officers instead of shut up in jail, with the result that less than 2 per cent. have failed to show themselves deserving of such leniency. It is much better to reform than to punish, and it costs less, too.

Every chief and prince of the Indian empire was represented in the recent council at Rawal-Pindi which tendered to Lord Dufferin men and money without limit to uphold England in a contest with Russia.

RAILROAD LIMITS AGAIN CHANGED

Trouble for the Walla Walla Farmers Threatened a Second Time—Feeling of the Settlers

WALLA WALLA, W. T., April 13.—The register and the receiver of the United States land office at this place have received a telegram from Commissioner Sparks revoking the order of Acting Commissioner Harrison, dated March 20, changing the terminal limits of the Northern Pacific railroad in this vicinity. It is believed that the revocation of the order has been secured by misrepresentation. Great indignation and uneasiness is everywhere manifest. Settlers who have purchased railroad lands, who feel that their homes are imperiled, are flocking to town and discussing various means of protecting their rights and some even swear they will hang or shoot the first man or land shark who tries to jump their lands. It was the settlers in the first place who demanded the change, and not the railroad company.

THE LETTER IN QUESTION

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Commissioner Sparks of the general land office, to-day sent the following communication to the register and the receiver at Walla Walla, W. T.: Gentlemen: On March 20th a diagram was transmitted to you with an office letter advising you of the amendment of the terminal limit of the withdrawal of land in your district of the definite location of the line of the Northern Pacific railroad and you were instructed, in effect, that the railroad company would be permitted to select lands under its grant within such extended limits. It appears this change was asked for in the interest of certain alleged purchasers from the railroad company of lands not subject to selection or sale by the company, under the order of the commissioner of the land office of Aug 6, 1881 fixing the terminal limit of said withdrawal. My attention has been called to the matter by a complaint referred to me on the 8th instant by the secretary of the interior, alleging that the interests of the settlers upon 149,700 acres of land were prejudiced by this action in favor of purchasers of 20,000 acres from the railroad company. I am satisfied the action of the 20th ult was taken under a misconception of the purport of the letter from the secretary of the interior of the 13th ult. In reply to a letter of the preceding day from the commissioner of this office, asking instructions in the premises the secretary stated that the fixing of the terminal limit was a matter of mathematical ascertaining and if a correction was necessary to truly represent the grant, on the other side of the road, this office was competent to make it. Such limit was fixed by the commissioner's order of August 6, 1881, in accordance with a rule used in the adjustment of early land grants, and adhered to from that period to the present time. It is not shown that any error was made in the ascertainment of that limit in the present case. It was clearly not the purpose of the secretary to change the rule for fixing terminal limits which had been applied to all railroad grants, nor to authorize the extension of the withdrawal of definite location beyond such terminal limits when already fixed by mathematical ascertainment in which no error is discovered. The action and instruction of March 20, 1885, being erroneous, are hereby revoked.

ANOTHER EXPLANATION

Speaking of this subject to-day, Commissioner Sparks said: The order of March 20 ought not to have been made. It brought into the land grant what I thought should not have been brought. Then my attention was drawn to the matter by a letter of complaint, and after conference with the secretary, I decided to revoke that order.

It was stated at the land office that the amount of land involved in the change of limit was 150,000 acres, and that two-thirds of it had already been patented to settlers, thus placing it beyond the reach of the railroad company.

STATE DISPATCHES

THE McDANIEL MURDER TRIAL

JACKSONVILLE, April 13.—The murder case in which Lewis McDaniel was waylaid and murdered in Ashland last November has thus far resulted in the finding guilty of Lewis O'Neill, who is under sentence to be hanged Thursday, May 21. Mrs McDaniel, wife of the murdered man, was given a hearing to-day in Justice Foudray's court and committed to jail without bail for being an accomplice in the murder. The evidence which was revealed by O'Neill to two fellow prisoners is strongly against Mrs McDaniel. J. J. Fryar, a brother-in-law of Mrs McDaniel who was accused of bribing witnesses at the last term of court, has been discharged.

The lord mayor, unable to withstand the storm any longer, stopped his carriage, and mounting the city hall steps, called for cheers for Parnell. March 30.

A. Onderdonk (Yale) or Superintendent:

Reports circulated that passes refused from Hammond; cause, no work. Wire me a statement of facts. Large number waiting to be assured of work. R. D. PITT.

The following is the answer:

Hammond, B. C., March 30.

To R. D. Pitt:

Plenty of work and free transportation from Hammond to Savonas, east end of track. None have been refused passes. M. J. HANAY, Gen. Supt. C. P. R. R.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

General Superintendent's Office, Yale, B. C., March 28, 1885.

Mr. R. D. Pitt, Portland:

Dear Sir—Your favor of the 21st inst. to hand and note the newspaper items attached. Your letter to 'Oregonian' of 20th I concur in. It states matters exactly as they are. Quite a number of the men you sent up here, and whom on your list are classed as laborers and willing to work as such, but on representing themselves to me as mechanics, have been provided for at their respective trades. The man, Peter Dorles, and four others, who arrived here on the 18th, are now working on water tanks at $2.50 per day. Again: others whom you have sent up I have placed as foremen. As I have instructed you to send only laborers, and for which, according to your reg ster (none others are sent), this class of men are wanted and can find work immediately upon arrival on the terms as quoted in your letter to the "Oregonian" of the 20th inst. I might state we can place all of the above class, but mechanical labor we don't want. Yours truly,

M. J. HANAY, Gen. Supt.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

Wanted immediately, by order of the contractor—Rockmen and laborers; wages from $1.75 up per day, according to work; all skilled laborers must take their chance. Board $4 per week; good accommodation, certain work for at least 1000 men; half fare provided from Portland to Port Hammond, first station on the Canadian P. R. R. Men must register on or before every Friday and Tuesday at No. 9 Washington street.

R. D. PITT, Notary Public and Commissioner of Deeds for States and Territories, Agent for A. Onderdonk, Yale, B. C.

ANOTHER PIONEER AT REST

On the 7th inst., near Bridgeport, Washington county, Oregon, Edwin Cummins departed this life after a brief illness. The deceased was born in the year 1816 in Steuben county, New York. He afterwards moved into Illinois where he lived until the spring of 1852. He emigrated during that year into Oregon and located two years later in Washington county where he has resided for the past thirty-one years. In his demise we are bereft of a worthy and upright citizen against whom no word of reproach was ever raised. He was married in 1839 to Miss Martha Bird of Lacon, Illinois, who with four children survives him. The entire community followed the remains to its last resting place.

MEDICAL COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.—The graduating exercises of the medical department of the Willamette university took place at Taylor street M. E. church last evening. The body of the church was filled, and many found seats in the gallery. The exercises began with an overture, Andante Favori, by Mrs. M. A. Smith, after which Rev. G. W. Chandler offered a fitting prayer. The commencement address was next delivered by Hon. George H. Williams. It will be published in Thursday's OREGONIAN. The reading of "Ivry," one of Macauley's productions, by Mrs. Louise Humphrey Smith, elicited hearty and well deserved applause. After which Mrs. J. W. Irwin sang "Salve Maria," a beautiful selection. The conferring of degrees on the graduating class by Dr. E. P. Fraser, dean of the faculty, followed. The graduates are Mrs. May H. Whitney, Frederick Base, John Laughary, David H. Rand, Ernest Everest, Sherman T. Davis and Francis M. Robinson. The charge to the graduates, a most excellent address, was delivered by Prof. James Browne, M. D., LL. D. Mrs. Louise Humphrey Smith then read the most pleasing selection of the evening entitled "Rip Van Winkle, M. D." The valedictory address was given by Dr. John Laughary, after which Mrs. Irwin sang "Good Night" in a very pleasing manner.

HORSE THIEVES CONVICTED.—The trial of Thompson and Darnell, the two horse thieves from Wasco county who were captured in East Portland, came off yesterday before Judge Stearns and a jury in the state circuit court. District Attorney Gearin conducted the prosecution and A. Campbell appeared for the defense. The evidence was brief but pointed strongly to the guilt of the prisoners. The defense set up that a man, whose name is unknown and who escaped, hired the two prisoners to assist him in bringing horses to Portland from Wasco county. The arguments of counsel were short and the jury quickly returned a verdict of guilty but recommended the prisoners on account of their youth to the mercy of the court. There were three horses stolen and the young men were indicted for the stealing of each horse as a separate offense. After the verdict in the first case both men pleaded guilty to each of the other two indictments, as they could do no less. Judge Stearns announced that he would pass sentence upon the men to-day.

MUHLENBERG COURT MARTIALED.—The court martial, which met at Fort Walla Walla for the trial of Lieut. Wm. C. Muhlenberg, of the Second infantry, in March, of which Major Baldwin was judge advocate, has presented its findings. The court sentenced Muhlenberg to suspension of rank and command for six months, and to be confined to the garrison, and to be reprimanded in orders, and, further, to forfeit $50 of each month's pay for six months. This last clause of the findings—that relating to the forfeiture of a portion of his pay—General Miles has disapproved. The lieutenant was tried for conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman—in sending some offensive dispatch concerning a leave of absence to Secretary of War Lincoln, reflecting on his commanding officer, Major Leslie Smith, and for failing to pay some long-standing debts, some of them gambling debts.

THE PROPOSED REDUCTION WORKS.—There seems every likelihood that the project of establishing smelting and reduction works here will be successfully carried out, and there is but little doubt that they will prove a paying investment if once established. The parties who have the matter under consideration are thorough business men and have plenty of capital. It is likely that $100,000 will be expended as a starter and more will be forthcoming when needed. A gentleman who has been connected with works of the kind at Omaha states that they were started nine years ago with a capital of $50,000 and employed twenty men. Now they represent $3,000,000 of capital and employ 400 men. Such works here would be of great benefit to the city and to the entire northwest.

A PORTLAND PIONEER DEAD.—Thomas F. Stephens, an old and well-known pioneer, died at his residence on the old Macadam road, south of this city, yesterday. He was born in Virginia in 1802 and was married to Phoebe Atherton, daughter of Israel Atherton of Hancock county, Illinois, in 1836. He came across the plains to this state in 1845, and the next year located on his donation claim, now a part of southern Portland. He was a brother of James B. Stephens of East Portland. He was an honest, kind-hearted man and a too-indulgent father. About fifteen years ago he went surety for a friend and was stripped of all his property. This and other troubles brought on softening of the brain, and for the past five years he was not able to work or attend to business. He leaves a wife and five children.

ROSEBURG STRAWBERRIES.—A gentleman who has just returned from an extended trip through the Willamette valley gives a glowing account of the prospects for the most magnificent crop of fruit of all kinds ever known here. While at Roseburg he visited the Bella Vista fruit farm. The strawberry crop there promises to be immense and shipments to this market will commence, if the weather continues favorable, in a week or ten days. The proprietor, W. V. Johnson, intends to make a new departure this year and have his boxes go with the fruit, so that the purchaser will not have to carry his berries home in a paper sack and get them all in a muss. This is a good idea as, when the berries are quite ripe, they are badly ammed by being dumped into sacks.

TOO CARELESS WITH STREET LIGHTING.—There is considerable dissatisfaction expressed with the present system of lighting the city. One member of the council who voted for the contract said yesterday that he was aware that it was not giving satisfaction. Another councilman who did not vote for the ordinance said that the oil lamps are not turned up and there is not half the light in his part of the town there was before this contract was let. The man who lights the oil lamps had better take time to turn them up so as to secure the best results, as they are certainly not doing as well as they are capable of. Proper attention to the work will put a stop to the complaints.

DEATH.—Clarence M. Reid, a young man well known here, and for a long time foreman of the Evening Telegram composing room, died recently at his ranch on the Columbia river, near Klickitat Landing in Washington territory, of neuralgia of the heart. Deceased's health was not good when he left the city several months ago, and it was in the hopes of bettering it that he turned his attention to farming. He leaves a wife and two children. Mr. Reed was a genial companion and had many friends who will read this item with regret. He was 28 years old, a member of the A. O. U. W., and a native of Oregon, having been born in Washington county.

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY COMMENCEMENT.—The commencement exercises of Willamette university at Salem, will commence on June 7th at 3:30. The Baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Rev. G. W. Chandler of the Taylor street church, of this city. The university sermon will be preached in the evening of the same day by Rev. Dr. Hines. The commencement address will be delivered on June 11th by Rev. J. N. Dennison, D. D., of Seattle, W. T. In addition to these discourses, a lecture is also expected from some prominent speaker, who is not yet secured.

THE POTATO EXPORT.—Nearly all the freight space on the steamer State of California on her downward trip this week has been taken up with potatoes, which find ready sale in San Francisco at low prices. Shipments of spuds during the past season have been large beyond all precedent. A prominent commission merchant stated yesterday that the export to San Francisco since the first of last October has been no less than 15,000 tons. In 1882-83 the surplus shipped by steamer was nearly 10,000 tons.

MORE HORSES TO SAN FRANCISCO.—The State of California, which sails for San Francisco to-morrow night, will take twenty-five head of horses, shipped to this city from Albany. At this time there is a good demand for horses in California, but a slow market in Oregon. However freight charges are reasonable, and as the money comes back into the state, it matters not where its products are sold.

SUITS TO SET ASIDE DEEDS.—G. T. Cramer and William M. Ladd, owners of property in Couch's addition, began suit yesterday to set aside deeds given by the chief of police to the city upon a recent public sale of property made to satisfy certain unpaid assessments for the improvement of D street, which plaintiffs claim to have been illegal.

NEW COUNTY BRIDGE.—The county commissioners have decided to build a new bridge over a gulch on the mountain road near the Red house, and the plans and specifications have already been prepared. Bids have been advertised for and will be received until noon on Monday next.

DECISION TO BE ANNOUNCED.—Judge Stearns, in department No. 2 of the state circuit court, will this morning announce a decision in the case of the Pothier & Symms Manufacturing Company vs Ben and Joe Holladay, upon the several motions and demurrers.

BED LOUNGES at cost. G. SHINDLER & CO.

LECTURE AT Y. M. C. A.—The first of a series of medical lectures for men was given last evening, by Dr. Holt C. Wilson, in the Y. M. C. A. chapel, which was crowded to overflowing. The subject was a most practical one, "What to do in case of sudden accident," and was handled in a thorough manner, showing that not only is the doctor thoroughly conversant with the subject, but that he also has the faculty of imparting the knowledge to others. The instruction given last evening cannot fail to benefit many among the large number who attended. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Wilson at the close of his remarks. The next in the series will be given in two weeks, by Dr. W. H. Saylor.

BOILERS CLEANED.—The big boat of the Stark street ferry was laid up at an early hour last night to have her boilers cleaned out and thoroughly overhauled. The little launch carried passengers until this morning, when the big boat resumed regular trips.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Several Questions of Freight Tariff Discussed. Committee Appointed to Meet the Iowa Press Association.

A regular meeting of the board of trade was held at their rooms last evening, President Donald Macleay in the chair and a large number present.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From B. Campbell, general agent of the Oregon Short Line, returning correspondence in regard to opening up trade with southern Idaho and stating that Manager Kimball would be in Portland in a short time and it was hoped that satisfactory arrangements could be made.

From T. E. Picott of the Wood River Times, stating that the trade of southern Idaho belonged to Portland and the people wished to deal here, but owing to negligence of railroad officials and high rates they were unable to do so. A communication from John Muir, traffic manager of the O. R. & N., was appended, stating that the rate was $1.50 per hundred and that the traffic officials of the Short Line would be here next month and the matter would receive their attention.

President Macleay said he had inquired into the matter and thought rates could be secured which would enable our merchants to secure the trade of the Wood River country.

From J. Fred Clark, giving an account of what he had done while in England recently to induce emigration here.

From the secretary of the Chicago board of trade stating that they would be pleased to have two delegates from this board present at the dedication of their new exchange building on the 28th and 29th insts.

President Macleay was instructed to appoint two delegates if he could find persons willing to go.

From S. A. Clarke calling attention to the need of fostering the fruit growing interest and the fact that the freight rate on prunes from here to New York was greater than from New York here, which had a tendency to discourage our fruit growers.

President Macleay said he had interviewed Mr. Muir in regard to this matter and had been informed that the rates from here were not higher than from California. Attention would be given the matter and an effort made to secure just rates for our fruit growers.

On motion the matter was referred to the committee on railroads.

OTHER MATTERS.

The following applicants for membership were unanimously elected: Philo Holbrook, A. N. Hamilton, D. N. Goldberg and Sutton & Beebe.

In the absence of C. H. Dodd, president of the immigration committee, C. B. Carlisle, secretary, presented a report which will be published by THE OREGONIAN in a day or two.

On motion of Mr. Laidlaw a vote of thanks was extended to the committee.

Secretary Arnold called attention to the proposed visit of the Iowa Press Association and the necessity of a committee being appointed to receive them.

President Macleay said it was important that the press association should be shown every attention and appointed the following committee to receive and attend to them: C. H. Prescott, Henry Failing, R. Koehler, D. P. Thompson, J. M. Buckley, Paul Schulze, J. Loewenberg, B. Campbell, H. W. Scott, A. N. Hamilton, A. Noltner and B. I. Cohen.

Mr. Mason introduced the following resolution, which was on motion adopted:

WHEREAS, The vast extent of country drained by the Columbia river and its tributaries, embracing nearly two hundred thousand square miles of valuable lands, is entitled to every aid that the national government can extend towards the improvement of its waterways, and the increase of such facilities for the navigation of its lakes and rivers as may cheapen the carriage of its products to the seaboard and to foreign countries. Therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed by the chair to consider and report upon the advisability of calling a convention of delegates from commercial bodies and municipalities throughout such parts of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, as are drained by the Columbia river and its tributaries, to concert measures for obtaining from the national government such treatment of the subject as its importance merits and demands.

Resolved, That in the selection of the committee the chair be not restricted to members of this board.

Hon. M. C. George was invited to address the meeting in regard to this matter and explained in a lucid manner the reasons why the river and harbor bill failed to pass, and the difficulties which stand in the way of securing the desired appropriation. Adjourned.

BRIEF MENTION.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. meet to-night at 7:45.

The stock of McInnis the grocer, was sold yesterday by the sheriff at auction, bringing $538.

The divorce suit of N. H. McKay against Isabelle McKay was yesterday referred to N. D. Simon to take testimony.

Thomas Varwig, the well known plumber, was struck yesterday by a slight shock of paralysis. The supposed cause is lead poisoning.

The well known William Sherlock place north of the city has been leased to J. G. Scoby, manager of Chadbourne & Co. in this city.

Mr. I. N. Scott, the newly appointed receiver of the narrow guage railway, takes charge of the property to-night. His office will be at Woodburn, Oregon.

On Tuesday evening at Vancouver barracks, Colonel and Mrs. Drum will give a house-warming. All the officers and ladies of the garrison will be present.

The two young Indian boys who ran away from the new school site near Salem and were captured in this city were taken back to their old quarters yesterday.

Abraham Green and family, consisting of eleven persons from Belfast, Maine, spent Sunday in this city and left this morning for the Sound on a tour of observation.

The Rev. Messrs. Lindsley, Lee and Laughlin, Presbyterian pastors of this city, left yesterday morning for Ashland to attend the meeting of the Oregon Presbytery.

Sheriff Jordan having obtained a requisition went over to Vancouver yesterday to get two soldiers now under arrest for committing highway robbery upon a Chinaman.

The mandate of the supreme court affirming the decision of the lower court in giving two thirds of the Albina ferry to the Multnomah Railway Company has been received here.

Arrangements have been made whereby the steamships of the O. R. & N. Co. can carry turpentine. This article has heretofore been shipped from San Francisco by sail only.

Isaac Bluม writing from San Francisco says: "I am going to Los Angeles on the 10th and will be in Portland about May 10, hoping to improve my health by the southern trip."

An excursion party of twenty five from Seattle, stopping at the Merchant. Among the number are Prof. O. B. Johnston, manager, and W. D. Ballard with his daughter.

F. B. Ebbert, city editor of the Standard, who is charged with writing and publishing a libel against Captain J. T. Apperson, goes to Oregon City this morning to appear in his own defense at the preliminary examination.

The clerk of the United States circuit court made his regular report yesterday morning. There is now in the registry the sum of $30,780.20, of which $29,725.79 belongs to the Queen of the Pacific case. The money is on deposit in the First National bank.

The newspaper business must be rather dull at Corvallis, as an editor of that town has started out with a violin under his arm. He may be going to join "dot Little German band," or perhaps he intends, like a historical character, to go fiddling through the town to dance away with the excise. [illegible] He made things pleasant on the west side [illegible] yesterday.

THE STAGE.

"FORTY NINE."—Last night a large audience greeted the McKee Rankin company at the New Market theater. While public expectation was raised to a high pitch it must be conceded that a performance so excellent and so complete was not awaited. The play of '49 portrays in bold striking colors the romance, the thrilling pathos, the quaint humor of certain phases of life only to be encountered in the California mining camp. Everyone who has a drop of pioneer blood in his veins must be thrilled by this dramatic recital. There is none of the gun firing, powder burning and generous blood letting which constitute essential ingredients of the typical sensational dramas which travesty the rude life of the border. This is a clean wholesome fascinating drama of logical construction which, despite the license always allowed for stage effects, is never inconsistent nor ever wildly improbable. It is a story of true heart interest told with simple directness, poetic fervor and picturesque development. There is something about it which goes right to the heart, and the man or woman who can sit unmoved by it must have a heart of stone. Bristling as it does with strongly defined characters, the grand central figure is nevertheless the rugged old miner personated with such marvelous fidelity by Mr. McKee Rankin. A man with the simplicity of a child and the courage of a lion, a man of giant physique, worn and broken by hardship, privation and suffering, one in whose early polish has been ground away by the slow friction of rude and rough association, a man weighted down by disappointments, but full of feverish ambition and stubborn hope, the embodiment of rugged honesty and true manhood in the rough—such a man is old '49, toiling and struggling, starving at times but always delving on with dogged desperation for the elusive golden treasure. The camps and gulches of every mining region in the great west are yet peopled with such as he. Mr. Rankin is an actor who has been very prominently identified with the drama in the best theaters of this country and who has won recognition abroad. His versatility has been demonstrated in society drama, in the romantic productions transplanted from the French stage, and in comedy and tragedy. In vigor, virility and manly grace of presence he is still a commanding figure. No better proof of the fine quality of his art could be afforded than in this performance of "'49," where every trace of his own personality is lost beyond possible recognition. The old miner is there in flesh and blood. The actor is never once suggested by a movement or a tone. It is as complete an illustration of thorough identification with character as the stage affords. It is a creation that will long be remembered with delight and satisfaction. Pathos and humor are exquisitely blended in this portrayal. Take for example the gulch scene where the penniless and creditless seeker for gold entertains his city bred guest with the only poor fare at his command, a coon dinner. His pitiful attempts to hide his poverty, the unconscious humor with which he seeks to make palatable the unsavory dish and the breaking down of his strong nature when despair and disappointment assert dominion are very touching. There is something indescribably pathetic about this incident, so naturally portrayed, but all through the scene tears are chased away by smiles, and the lights play among the shadows. So it is in the scene where the old pioneer accuses himself of crime to shield his newly discovered son from the unjust vengeance of the vigilantes, and in the final act where he is restored to polite society, with its unaccustomed restraints of dress and etiquette and sundered family ties are happily reunited. It is a grand, noble, tender and lovable creation which Mr. Rankin gives us. It establishes beyond cavil his great power as an actor. In conception and realization '49 is as perfect a bit of character acting as can be found upon the stage. Mrs. Rankin (Kitty Blanchard) carried all before her as the boydenish, wayward Carrots. A charming madcap is this auburn haired young girl, as bold and fearless as the eagles and brimming over with exuberance of spirits, but tender, affectionate and loyal—a faithful lover and a fierce hater. Carrots plays wild pranks with her rough companions of the camp. She sings rude snatches of negro melody in the Downieville barroom. She teases and pets her old guardian, '49, with bewitching coquetry. She is guilty of ludicrous violations of propriety in seeking to adapt herself to new found conditions of wealth and social position. But at all times she is a hearty straightforward, honest girl, with a heart of gold that throbs with tender womanly impulses. A delightful character is Carrots, and delightfully is it represented by Mrs. Rankin. Her magnetism is irresistible. She is bright, sparkling and winsome—in short an inimitable actress who never seems to act but lays bare the innermost nature of the character with spontaneity and fidelity, and without the faintest suggestion of coarseness. The astonishing strength of the Rankin company has not been over estimated in the preliminary announcements. It is composed of tried players, who learned their art in a stern and exacting school and many of whom have attained dignified positions as independent stars. In these days when the stage is invaded by immature amateurs and noisy variety people of arrogant pretension it is a pleasure to see a company of actors who deserve their reputation and honor their calling. There is no poor or indifferent acting in this breezy play of '49. Each character is made to stand out with vivid and artistic distinctness. The brusque old General wrecked upon the treacherous shoals of good fellowship but lovable with all his weaknesses is superbly played by Theodore Hamilton. Another admirable bit of character acting is Frank Mordaunt's Old Ned, a type of negro character wholly original and unfamiliar to the stage. An actor of broad capabilities and thorough honesty of purpose is Mr. Mordaunt. The dry fussy old lawyer would be commonplace enough in the hands of any but a skillful artist, and J. J. Wallace gives him life, color, prominence and individuality. In the juvenile role of Arthur Dennison, a frank, manly, young lawyer, Mr. Joseph Holland, who comes of one of the most famous of theatrical families, displays a handsome and graceful presence, a melodious voice and the repression which always gives the grateful assurance of ample strength in reserve. C. J. Edmonds gives a wholly consistent portrayal of genteel villainy. Charles C. Ray, a promising young comedian, personates an old clerk with great fidelity in the first act and creates shouts of merriment as a smart negro waiter in the hotel scene. Miss Helen Ottolen as Belle, Miss Lottie Hudson as the fiery Mississippi and Emma Marble as the long lost wife of '49 round out a symmetrical and perfect cast. The play is picturesquely staged and faultlessly acted. It provoked much merriment, some tears and tremendous applause. It is an attraction that cannot be disregarded by a community which has never yet been found lacking in critical discrimination and artistic appreciation.

'49 will run until Friday night, when it gives way to "The Danites," in which the strength of this magnificent company will doubtless find equal illustration.

THE TIVOLI.—"Hearts of Oak, or the Mariner's Compass," was enthusiastically received last evening at the Tivoli. It is a charming play, the action being full of incident, natural, sympathetic, with the very cream of life in it. The character of Silas Englehart is finely drawn, every inch a sailor, but uniting in a most delicious and manly way the tender qualities of a lover. The part was well played by Mr. Richmond. Miss Lizzie Ingham as Hetty was heartily received and warmly applauded. One of the gems of the play is the little child actress Gracie, who personated little Hetty. For one so young she exhibits remarkable talent and spoke her lines in a distinct and truly natural manner. The scene where she encounters her blind father in the village churchyard drew tears from many eyes. Brother Ebenezer, Sister Betsey and Hannah are three characters indigenous to the New England soil and were acted to the very life by Mr. and Mrs. Langrishe and Miss Dalgleish. The drama is mounted in excellent style. The rescue from the wreck by the life line is a novel introduction, and the old water mill with its working wheel was sufficiently realistic.

THE CASINO.—Three more performances close the present season at the Casino. To-morrow night the Winston-Bell joint benefit. The box sheet for the benefit opened yesterday morning and in less than two hours every seat between the stage and the tables were taken. Wednesday promises to be the gala night of the long engagement.

MEETING OF DAIRYMEN.

An Association to Promote Dairy Interests—Permanent Officers Elected, etc.

Nearly forty gentlemen interested in dairying met at the office of the Farmer and Dairyman in this city yesterday at 1:30 o'clock, pursuant to a call published in that journal and several times noticed in its columns for the formation of a dairymen's association. F. Casey called the house to order, and called J. B. Knapp of Portland to the chair temporarily. A. Telling of Milwaukie was selected temporary secretary. In taking the chair Mr. Knapp read a very interesting and well written address that admirably set forth the condition of the dairy interests in Oregon past and present, and won hearty plaudits for his effort at its conclusion.

Thomas Paulsen of Washington, J. H. Rathburn of Multnomah and Warren Cranston of Marion county were appointed a committee on permanent organization and reported the recommendation that the permanent organization consist of a president, two vice presidents, secretary and treasurer and five officers to constitute the board of directors, and that any person directly interested in or in sympathy with the dairy interests shall be eligible to become a member. The permanent officers, after the adoption of the report of the committee, were then elected as follows: President, J. B. Knapp, Portland; vice presidents, Thomas Paulsen, Gard's Home, Oregon, and N. Spurgeon of Vancouver, W. T.; secretary, H. B. Hathaway, Portland; treasurer, Plympton Kelly, East Portland.

A committee to draft constitution and by laws and articles of incorporation to report at the next regular meeting, was appointed as follows: Thomas Paulsen, F. Casey, N. B. Hathaway, W. W. Baker and Warren Cranston. The next regular meeting was set for Monday, April 27, next at 1 o'clock at the office of the Farmer and Dairyman.

Twenty six gentlemen signed the roll of membership. Much interest was manifested in the dairy outlook and the organization of the dairymen's association. It is expected that even a larger attendance will be met at the next convention.

COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY, April 13.

[illegible] rain [illegible] when greatly needed [illegible] crops already in were not [illegible] damaged by prolonged dryness or [illegible] the rain has enabled farmers to immediately put in what spring grain [illegible] desired and it will strengthen and develop struggling grain already in. There remains very little acreage to be sown, but all are anxious to get this covered in view of the promising future. Reports from the interior [illegible] previous to Sunday all mentioned a need of rain to bring out the young plant. The [illegible] one half to one inch throughout the valley thus becomes an important matter and almost every drop has furnished moisture, the ground being in condition to quickly absorb all falling. It has been remarked that March was an unusually dry month. As a rule we have always [illegible] the moisture at this time of year. Late experience being out of ordinary [illegible] dryness were not [illegible] as [illegible] is capable of being extended as a usual one is to be repeated. Now the valley is in a condition to require but little moisture before harvest and no apprehensions need be expressed for some time to come. Letters received last week from the eastern section tell of the need [illegible] full crops. A very light rain over that section now would furnish quite all the moisture required, as less is needed than throughout the valley.

Shipments of wheat by the Columbia were 2862 ctls and not as erroneously reported this morning.

Overland receipts include 2 cs candy, 50 sks nuts, 25 sks coffee, 50 cs lard, 2 cs cigars, 354 pkgs tobacco, 56 hf 40 bbls beer.

The exports of wheat and flour reduced to wheat from San Francisco for eight months ending March 31 were 328,958 short tons, against 541,109 tons for the same time last season.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 48 hours 2.144 ctls wheat, 122 bbls flour, 622 ctls oats, 184 ctls millstuff, 828 sks potatoes, 3614 lbs mohair, 4953 lbs hides, [illegible] cs eggs, 32,231 lbs hops, 10 bxs fruit, 5 pkgs butter. Also 38,165 lbs wool, 2948 lbs hides from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—An inactive market rules, little disposition being shown to operate.

WHEAT—All markets higher with more or less excitement. Locally $1 30 is paid for valley, at $1 20 @1 22½ for Walla Walla. Trading is light.

FLOUR—Very firm at the advance, some agents refusing any cash discount. The advance is general and may soon be followed by another. Agents are in receipt of free orders from the sound section. Quote standards $4 25.

OATS—Steady and choice feed would meet with good request at 32@34c. Inferior are neglected under large stocks, consignees reporting sales at next to impossible.

POTATOES—Outward movement again blocked as the outgoing steamer is full. Most buyers have reduced paying price for Garnet Chiles to 1c, as purchases must be held here for some time, and the San Francisco market is deemed uncertain. Quote 45@50c as to kind.

ONIONS—Late shipments realized good returns but the movement is light because of probable fluctuation and the small quantity of choice available. Quote 2¼c for hard, 1c for soft.

PROVISIONS—Market moves along quietly with a fair degree of steadiness, and values are without change. Chicago markets are tending up and this may affect local values later on.

DRIED FRUIT—Market sluggish for common sorts, supplies being large. Values are without change.

EGGS—Receipts lighter and market firmer at 12@13c.

MARK LANE REVIEW

LONDON, April 13.—The [illegible] in its weekly review of the British grain trade [illegible]: A slight rainfall has brought spring growth forward. The imminence of war between [illegible] and Russia has caused active wheat advance [illegible] @7s. Yet all business [illegible]. Sales of English wheat during the past week were 42,600 quarters at [illegible] against [illegible] quarters at 37s 9d during the corresponding week last year. It is believed that from three fourths to [illegible] of the English wheat crop of 1884 has already been marketed and that farmers hold very little stock. These conditions [illegible] smaller supply of foreign wheat and the fact that half [illegible] 3,000,000 quarters of foreign breadstuffs [illegible] are from two to four months off would warrant belief that the position is sufficiently [illegible] to bring about an advance of 20 shillings per quarter within a week should war be declared. [illegible] so low that there is plenty of room for an advance without making wheat dear. How long such an advance would be maintained would depend upon the action of American speculators during the next two months. At present trade is experiencing an extreme [illegible] which deters both buyers and sellers from operating. The foreign trade is greatly excited on account of war rumors. The off coast market is in a state of suspense. Ten cargoes arrived, six cargoes were sold, five were withdrawn and eleven remained, including six of California. About nine sailing vessels with cargoes are due. To-day in the absence of definite news regarding probabilities of war, the tension of the market was extreme. English and foreign wheats, since Easter, have advanced fully four shillings. Flour to-day was very firm. American corn sold at 24 shillings, ex-ship, an advance of 1s [illegible]

[illegible] Barleys were [illegible] 6d [illegible] advance over [illegible] shillings [illegible] and peas were [illegible] dearer.

At the wool sales to-day [illegible] bales of [illegible] and Sydney were sold. [illegible] was steady.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET

CHICAGO April 13.—The grain markets were [illegible] and buoyant again this morning [illegible] [illegible] continued signs of war [illegible] [illegible] consols and wheat rose [illegible] cents [illegible] Saturday. First sales being at 90 [illegible] for May. There was another rally [illegible] [illegible] to 90¾ and is now at the opening figure. [illegible] Private cables are very warlike in tone and predict an open declaration of war by England within the next two days, with the possibility that the question might be brought to a direct issue in the commons this evening. Outside orders came in freely and were accompanied by numerous cases of bad crop reports as a result of the freezing weather of the past forty eight hours, but the Afghan war loomed over all other contingencies, and trading was based almost solely upon the issue between Russia and England. Foreign grain markets responded to the rise here which was a strong, sustaining feature. The corn market took even a stronger tone than wheat in comparison, May advancing to 48¼, an advance of ⅜ over Saturday.

Wheat closed strong and higher 85⅞ April, 90 May [illegible] June. Corn strong and higher 44 April, 44⅝ May, 48⅛ June. Oats firm and higher [illegible] May, 36 June. Rye [illegible] higher [illegible] Barley nominal.

James Sprague's claim of $50 for work done at the house on Water street occupied by Mollie Thay[illegible] was cut down one half by a jury in Justice [illegible]'s court yesterday.

Mr [illegible] Walker who has been on a still hunt for the past week for a reported valuable mine in Tillamook county returned home yesterday without success. He will try it again shortly.

Mr James H. Dickson and Miss Florence C. [illegible] of Clackamas county appeared before Justice [illegible] yesterday as partners to a life contract which they desired him to ratify. This he proceeded to do with due solemnity and telling effect.

Reports are good from the Blackhawk mine in Tillamook county in which several East Portland ers are interested. A tunnel 9x4 feet at the mouth is being run and the richness increases with depth. About [illegible] feet have now been excavated. Two recent assays gave $101 0 and $110 0 of silver respectively.

COEUR D'ALENE

Observations on the Ground—Rich Mines—Developments Slow, but Good Results Sure—Timely Suggestions to Business Men of Portland.

Mr Stephens [illegible] of East Portland, who has just returned from a visit to the Coeur d'Alene mines, furnishes the following letter concerning his visit which coming from a practical business man is interesting, showing the importance of the mines to the business of the northwest and also the [illegible] of Portland merchants [illegible]

EAST PORTLAND, April 1[illegible].

I started [illegible] to the Coeur d'Alene mines March [illegible] arrived at [illegible] the next day [illegible] found a stage [illegible] waiting to convey passengers [illegible] [illegible] half [illegible] Mission [illegible] [illegible] to convey passengers to Kingston, which is located on the Coeur d'Alene river [illegible] The steamer Coeur d'Alene is a fine boat with splendid accommodations, Capt Frank Smith [illegible] [illegible] for [illegible] [illegible] engineer [illegible] Henry [illegible] is chief [illegible] for that portion [illegible] I will sleep on the boat [illegible] safety. Bill Day [illegible]

[illegible] A force [illegible] under the direction of Mr C[illegible] are at work building a road from Kingston to the mines, a distance of [illegible] thirty miles. They purpose to build a first class wagon road and will crowd the work with all possible speed. They have now about five miles of the road completed and it is as fine a [illegible] road as I ever traveled over. Being a private enterprise a reasonable toll will be charged. In my opinion it will prove a splendid investment [illegible] though I think it will cost [illegible] the company [illegible] There is [illegible] that the road is the most needed improvement [illegible] the country and will be especially beneficial to Portland merchants if they take advantage of the opportunity that will be thus afforded them. When the road is completed the rates of freight will be reduced and miners supplies [illegible] be [illegible] from this point much cheaper than from [illegible] Portland [illegible] should [illegible] the trade of Coeur d'Alene [illegible] of great importance [illegible] That the mines [illegible] rich there is no doubt.

I visited several claims and had permission to [illegible] [illegible] evidence of an abundance of gold existing in the region though lying deep [illegible] considerable time and money to extract it [illegible] no claims opened on [illegible] creeks because of the [illegible] of the bed rock. The creeks are flat and drainage is bad, but that trouble will be overcome before long by the use of heavy steam pumps or by commencing at the mouths of the creeks and bringing up a bedrock flume. All this takes money [illegible] at present there are but few moneyed men up there. But I might say there are none of extensive means. What claims are opened on the gulches and [illegible] are, as a rule, paying well and the miners that I have had great experience [illegible] diggings say that when they [illegible] the bedrock in the creek channels they will take it out by the bucketful. There is no question that there is rich quartz in the country but the ledges have not been prospected sufficiently to ascertain their richness and extent. A Louisville company is putting up a quartz mill to crush rock from the Golden Chest ledge, which promises to be very rich. A company from the east has bonded the [illegible] ledge for $40,000. There is no doubt in my mind that there are good opportunities for investments in the mines. The country is new and I am satisfied there will be developments made that will astonish the natives.

The mines will in five years from now produce five times as much as they do at present. The two principal towns are Murray and Beaver.

The people from Montana and the east are making a desperate effort to control the trade from the mines and to have all the goods shipped that way. This they will do unless the people of Portland come to the front with something of their old time energy. Upon my return trip Capt [illegible] Smith informed me that as soon as the road was completed to the half way house the boat would leave Coeur d'Alene City every morning at 4 o'clock enabling passengers to go through to the mines the same day. This will be a great convenience and save one day's time. Capt [illegible] Smith who is well known among steamboat men is at Kingston with [illegible] scows ready to start up the Coeur d'Alene river with a load of freight. He is confident of making a success of his new enterprise as freight can be put in [illegible] the mines much cheaper than at the present prices, the scows being [illegible] to go within three miles of the [illegible].

S. S. [illegible]

A good many of Mr Cleveland's nominations were the more of a surprise to the politicians that they were a nuisance to the newspapers. It is hard work to procure accurate biographical details about men whose chief characteristic is their obscurity.—New York Tribune
